

Delaware Disability History

The Delaware Developmental Disabilities Council in conjunction with several disability organizations are in the process of documenting the history of disability in Delaware.

We need your help to make this project a huge success. We are currently looking for any photos or videos of individuals with disabilities from past to present showing the pictorial historical journey (e.g. living arrangements, community outings, educational settings, work environments, transportation, mobility equipment, recreational activities, etc.)

If you have photos or videos that could be used for this project, please send your photos either via email to Stefanie.lancaster@state.de.us or mail a copy to:

*By sending your photo either via email or postal mail, you are giving us the permission to use your photo or video for this project which also may include media outlets.
